Teaching Children To Sew with Lutterloh

Why sewing is important:

It is creative, teaches them self-sufficiency, problem solving and driving skills. It's entertaining! Teaching your children/grandchildren to sew is exciting and very rewarding, regardless of the amount of sewing knowledge of the parent. Allow your child to work at their own pace, don't expect perfection but praise them on the result.

Sewing is fun - the colours, the fabrics, and the styles. It's a wonderful experience to start with a flat piece of fabric, and with application of a few basic rules and methods, turn it into something wearable, useable, or otherwise enjoyable.

Learning to sew is easy:

- Our very first lesson for beginners covers the basics of operating a sewing machine, including the name of machine parts, bobbins and settings. Are you old enough to learn sewing skills? If you can read you can sew.
- Our second lesson is sewing on paper with thread making brown paper shapes that we can use for cards and decorations for the Xmas tree.
- Our third lesson is sewing a small denim bag - using decorative stitches and different stitch lengths - in other words playing with the machine.
- Our fourth lesson is making a simple hoodie (jumper with hood attached), which all kids wear and they are so proud of themselves in their first garment stitching!
